Our thesis placements are free, but we expect you to present your findings to us.

Your profile

You are studying a relevant master's programme and will write your thesis about circumstances that influence the Danish financial sector based on analysis of the sector's development or the sector's role in relation to the rest of the Danish society - and you can express your knowledge in a way so that others can benefit from it. ## What we can offer

Throughout the process of writing your thesis, you will have a social workplace at your disposal, which in addition to physical elements such as a table, chair etc., will also give you access to the internet, a printer and other office facilities.

You will become part of a professional environment, where you can discuss with specialists and other thesis students, and you can participate in Finance Denmark's professional events. In addition, Finance Denmark's member companies will have the opportunity to get in contact with you, if your thesis topic is relevant.

We spend three days of our week at the Finans Danmark premises, where we have a nice office of our-selves, in a quiet and central location. Help is supplied to us every time we need it, both in terms of utensils and technical knowledge. Thanks to some of Finans Danmark consultants we are able to enrich our research with more insights on the econometrics approaches and monetary policy system mechanisms. We feel Thesis Lab has provided a concrete support to our research.
